

NAPIER

(SHERRY CASK MATURED)

Robert Napier (1791-1876) rightly regarded as the 'Father of Clyde Shipbuilding', had three main mantras, 'quality, quality, quality.' His appetite for invention and innovation in steam-engine and ship-building design saw him rub shoulders with royalty and emperors across Europe.

From the fastest and first iron-hulled ships for the Royal Navy, to the quickest Atlantic crossing, he was a man ahead of his time, one who set the template for future generations of shipbuilders.

From his Govan yard, he carried the 'Clydebuilt' legend around the globe, with his signature vermilion and black hooped ships' funnels becoming a worldwide trademark when he went into business with legendary Canadian shipping-magnate, Samuel Cunard.

The Clydeside Distillery, which sits just opposite Napier's original shipyard, is proud to have applied his name, and mantra - 'quality, quality, quality' - to its latest release, a characterful Lowland malt, matured for over 6 years in Oloroso sherry casks.

TASTING NOTES

This Clydeside Single Malt is produced using water from Loch Katrine, 100% Scottish barley and then matured in the finest Oak casks.

Nose: Ripe berry, sweet rose and tropical tones.

Palate: Orange marmalade, cherry and vanilla.

Finish: Warming clove and ginger.

Matured in Oloroso sherry casks for over 6 years.

Packaging is 100% recyclable. Outer tubes have a perforation allowing for easy recycling of both the tube and the tin ends.

46% | NATURAL COLOUR | NON-CHILL FILTERED

THE CLYDESIDE DISTILLERY
GLASGOW

